From the Organ Bench

It takes courage to go through life being called William Chatterton Dix. His second name appears to have been the result of his father's having just written a biography of the 18th-century poet Thomas Chatterton: we must be thankful that it wasn't Sappho, or McGonagall.

Anyway William (1837-98) overcame this handicap and rose to become the manager of a firm of insurance brokers: but he is best-known for writing some much-loved hymns. And he is a man whom, if we had lived at the same time, I would happily have bought a drink – as I'll explain in a moment.

The first of his best-loved hymns is Alleluia, sing to Jesus, a triumphant Eucharistic hymn which draws cleverly on several passages in the Bible, notably the final words of St. Matthew's gospel at the end of the hymn's second verse:

Though the cloud from sight received him, When the forty days were o'er,

Shall our hearts forget his promise, 'I am with you evermore?'

Once again we have a hymn deservedly made even more famous by its tune – the glorious Welsh melody Hyfrydol, by another of the one-hit wonders (but what a hit!) of which 19th-century hymnody abounds: Rowland Huw Prichard (1811-87), a weaver and flannel maker from Merioneth.

William Chatterton Dix's other well-known hymn is one for Epiphany, but sometimes sung as a Christmas carol, which it isn't. As with gladness men of old celebrates the wise men, or Magi, bringing gifts to the infant Jesus, but adds invaluable to that in the first three verses by starting with 'As....' and finishing with 'So may we....', as, for example:

So may we, with willing feet, Ever seek thy mercy-seat.

Victorian language, but simple and memorable, and much-loved: so much so that the words have survived being wedded to one of the most tedious tunes ever set to a hymn. Dix wrote As with gladness as a young man, in time for it to be included in the first edition of Hymns Ancient and Modern in 1861. The editors adapted a German chorale by Conrad Kocher (1786-1872) for the hymn and called the tune Dix. The reason why I would cheerfully have bought Dix a drink is that he made it clear that he himself disliked the tune intensely. Other composers, including Sir Charles Stanford, have written alternative tunes, but Dix is too well embedded to be dislodged.

Never mind – it's a fine hymn and deserves to be sung at the feast of the Epiphany – although for me personally, once a year is enough. But I'll sing and play Alleluia, sing to Jesus to Hyfrydol as often as you like.

PET PRAISE!

We recently had a pet service at St John's Charlton Musgrove where we celebrated our wonderful pets and God blessed them! Sadly, I was unable to take Billy, the stray ginger tom who adopted me a year ago as he's still nervous of people and scarpers when the cat carrier appears!

I discovered that his actual name is William Maximus Rufus, reflecting the various people he has chosen to look after him during his eventful 13 year life. He arrived hungry when I was looking for a dog and it is still touch and go if he's going to stay - much depends on the outcome of our current battle to change his food from sachet to more ocean-friendly tins.

But while he chooses to remain with me, I learn a lot from Billy. He was very jumpy for months after his arrival, rushing out the room whenever I entered so I learnt to slow down, walking gently when he is around. It's also taken a while for him to trust me to stroke him although he still can't bear the rustle of carrier bags.

God has often spoken to me through Billy. I felt Him explain how he too adapts Himself to each one of us, approaching us in unique ways which don't scare us and which we can relate to as He knows exactly what we've been through in our lives.

He also asked me recently if I love Billy more now that He trusts me. I realised that I didn't - I loved him as much when he was a freaked out puss as I do now. But our relationship has changed - it's much closer and more fun now for us both.

And so it's the same with God - as we grow to trust Him more, a closer, more personal relationship develops which is mutually enjoyable. The Apostle Paul writes that we if we take a long and thoughtful look at what God has created, we will see what He is like - His love, His power and His nature. Pets are one way to do this - thank you God for them!

Thank you to John Ball and Bob Parker for painting and renovating the phone box (defibrillator) post boxes, benches and notice boards within the village.

They organised a "working group" on Saturday 21st July when a small group of local residents joined them to help. The Parish Council would like to thank them all for their hard work. It all looks fantastic!

Hurray! St Stephen's Charlton Musgrove has Heritage Lottery Funding to help mend the hole in its eight hundred year old roof.

We are very excited to announce that we have secured Heritage Lottery Funding, which goes a long way to help ensure our restoration project is viable at all. There will be other grants too, but the parish has been busy (and will continue to be so) raising money through things like horticultural talks at the village hall, the annual village plant sale, and on 29th Sept a great fun barn dance which will take place in the Kimber's turkey barn at Higher Stavordale Farm (tickets will be available at the farm shop.)

We're all very keen to make the most of this opportunity, not only to mend the church roof, but to set up this building, which has been at the heart of our parish community for the past 800 years, so that it can carry on serving the people who live around it for many centuries to come.

Thank you to all the who came along to the 'Ladies Evening' which we held at the end of July in The Barn at Higher Stavordale Farm. It was a great evening with such a good atmosphere and lots of support from many ladies. I haven't finalised the figure raised yet but it will be roughly £400 for St. Stephen's church roof appeal! It was such a success and we still have lots of clothes to sell so I plan to hold another sale in the Autumn.....watch this space!

At the last Coffee Morning we wished Shirley Henshaw a fond farewell and many happy days in her new home in Bristol. She will be missed in our community and on the outings.

Very many congratulations to Pip Loxton for organising a most successful Village Flower Show on Saturday 11th August. It is always hard work and she makes light of all she does to make it run so smoothly, but it was much enjoyed by all who took part, entered produce, crafts, paintings, cakes, photographs, etc, if they won awards or not, and it was fun to see the local skills, whether they were the biggest onions or funniest photos, and have a cup of tea and scone with friends. Well done Pip and your helpers!

Averil and Brian Ellard would like to thank everyone who came to the Coffee morning at Sunnybank in July and commented on their pretty garden. It was a pleasure to see you all and thank you for the plants you gave us.

IT'S NOT TOO LATE TO JOIN IN!

100 YEARS 100 DAYS 2 MINUTES

The challenge has been taken up - to offer prayers for peace for 100 days. On 4th August 1918 George V led a nation-wide day of prayers for peace. One hundred days later, on 11th November 1918, the Armistice was signed.

And the need to pray for peace in our world remains, not least in this centenary commemoration year. Parishioners here have indeed taken up the initiative. Some are praying on specific days during the 100 days. Others are looking to pray on each of the 100 days. And, yes, there is room for still more – for you, perhaps - to join us in these prayers for peace. Praying isn't limited to church-goers. All who desire peace for our world – which is what those who fought in 1914-18, in 1939-45, and in subsequent conflicts stood for – can join us. Further details can be found on leaflets in our churches – pop in and pick up a leaflet. Or contact the Rector (rosyashley@hotmail.com; tel 01747 442969) or Mike Vockins (mdvockins@btinternet.com; tel 01963 34837).
